Orland Wins

Opening Ball Game

When Umpire Eddie Jedutski and Ed. Day yelled "Play Ball" the base ball season was officially opened. Orland played Palos Park A. C. at Sharpshooters Park Sunday and boy, you should have been there.

A wonderful exhibition of ball was shown. Features of the game were the pitching by Ludwig and Holstrom. Orland had it all its own way, except in the ninth inning was there any danger.

Palos made two runs and had a man on second, but Fred Utte caught him sleeping, then two strike outs and Orland went home the Victor.

New Mokena City

Dads Sworn In

The newly elected trustees of the village of Mokena were sworn into office at the board meeting Wednesday night. The new members are Herman Schweser, Wm. R. Lynk and Harvey Reab. The outgoing officers are; Aug. Hentsch, Emil P. Krapp and George Wannemacher. George J. Hacker, present mayor was re-elected without opposition.

The new board has not fully outlined its policies but the voters will undoubtedly hear from them favorably in the near future.

Annexation Matter Being Looked Into

The matter of annexing the Marti school district north of Mokena into the Mokena school district, has been taken up by the township school trustees of Frankfort township, but no final decision has been reached as the trustees wish more legal information on the matter before taking any annexation steps. It would mean much for the Mokena school district if the Marti district were annexed to it.

Tinley Park Club House Ready June 1

The Tinley Park Community Club is now assured of a community hall. Awhile ago the Club proposed to buy the old school building and when this deal was consummated, the Club found that it would cost a large sum to move the building on another lot. After discussing the matter pro and con the Club was rather in a quandary just what to do when John M. Bettenhausen, former highway commissioner of Bremen township offered to take over the building and move it on his lot across the street from its present location and in return he agreed to lease the property exclusively to the club for a period of five years with the option of the club renewing the lease for five years more if so desired and the club has accepted Mr. Bettenhausen's offer. He has agreed to start moving operations at once and is planning to have the Community Club Hall ready for occupancy by June. The next club meeting will be held at the village hall on the evening of May 6th. A good representation is desired.

Wonderful Drama Coming to Mokena

One of the finest dramas that ever has been the pleasure of the people of Mokena to witness in their own town is to be shown at the St. John Evangelical church parlors on the night of May 17th under the auspices of the Mokena Methodist church. This play is being produced by the students of the Chicago Training school.

Conforming with a progressive policy recently adopted, Methodism has admitted dramatics and pagentry to the curriculum of at least one institution where students are trained for lay religious work.

The Chicago Training School has set the pace in this line, the first fruits of the innovation being the form of a religious drama which was recently presented in Chicago.

The play is "The Rich Young Man", by Sara Kingsbury. All costumes to be used were made by the young women students, and the men students have had a large share in constructing the stage and properties.

"The Rich Young Man" is a biblical drama brought out in 1924 and is considered one of the better plays of the year. Many who saw the recent Passion Play in Chicago and who also saw this drama, consider this drama the better of the two so this goes to show that Mokena is going to have a real treat in every sense of the word.

A friend of the Chicago Training School recently donated $600 for the furtherance of the study of dramatics and pagentry in this institution and this sum was spent on the drama "The Rich Young Man."

Mokena Men's Club First Hop May 16

The Mokena Men's Club is preparing for their opening dance to be held May 16th. This dancing party will feature the Bob Pierce Serenaders. Everyone is invited to attend as a good time is assured.

Exiled Saloonist Moves to Blue Is.

Chicago Ridge Ends Vote Tying With A Drawing Tues. Eve

There was a tense atmosphere in the village hall at Chicago Ridge Tuesday night. A crowd was gathered around two men drawing numbers from a hat. The interested spectator felt that some great stake was involved. One sensed the electric thrill which attends the turn of the roulette wheel or the fall of the dice.

Both men drew bits of paper and examined them solemnly. The face of one fell, the other countenance lighted up. They shook hands formally. The crowd cheered for Arthur Meyer, the winner, whose prize was the village presidency.

In the election April 21, Meyer and Henry Schmalen each received 40 votes. They decided to draw numbers to decide who should be President.

Will Start Series of Plays May 5

The Young People's Society of the Mokena Immanuel Lutheran church are going to produce the first of a series of programs at the Saenger Hall, Tinley Park on May 5th, when they will present a play "Ruth in a Rush" This play is also to be given in Mokena at the Mokena Men's Pavilion May 7th. On May 13th the same play is to be given at Grange Hall in New Lenox. The young people have put much time and effort in the production which is sure to be worth while.

Orland M. E. Church Active

The meeting of the Ladies Guild last week at the hospitable home of Mrs. Betsey Austin was much enjoyed. The time was occupied with sewing, partaking of a delicious "pot luck" dinner, and the business meeting, at which the president, Mrs. James Creer presided.

At the previous meeting the Guild had decided to place eaves-troughs on the church and authorized Mrs. Creer to confer with Mr. Wm. Beagley and Mr. John Loebe regarding the matter.

The work was done last week by Mr. Triebel of Palos Park. The people of the church are grateful to the Guild for this further help in placing the church property in better condition.

The opening devotional services Sunday evening were in charge of the Ladies Guild with Mrs. M. S. Collins presiding. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Betsey Austin. Special musical numbers were: a duet by Mrs. Frank Mahaffy and daughter Clarice, an anthem by the choir and a solo by Mr. Clarence Beagley. A series of slides on "Rapid Transit in Africa" were explained by Miss Harriett Austin. Rev. Collins gave a short sermon on "The Shepherd of Life" which was illustrated by a motion picture, "The Twenty-third Psalm." This contained many beautiful scenes filmed in Palestine.

Next Sunday evening the sermon subject will be "Human Heritage", with an interesting two reel picture "The Fruit of the Family Tree."

The church was packed last week to see Mary Picford in "Pollyanna". A reel comedy drama "Daddies" which achieved such great success as a stage play when first produced by David Belasco. It is the story of an air-tight bachelor's club which was wrecked by one of Cupid's darts and is full of amusing incidents. Mae March and Harry Myers have the leading parts. Remember the hour is now 8:30 P. M. Daylight Saving time.

Watch For Big Sale

Walter Fisher, Mokena merchant is going to hold a big sale at his store beginning, May 9th. A lot of bargains will be offered. Watch for his ad in this paper.

Local Paper The Best Asset Any Town Can Have

Merchants should advertise in the News-Bulletin because it reaches all parts of this section and is the best medium thru which to reach the people of this territory. Many subscribers to the News-Bulletin say they do not take any other secular paper, therefore the columns of this paper is the best way to reach them.

Merchants should advertise in this paper because it is a home enterprise. The editor and employees spend most of their money with the home merchants. If the merchants believe in home people patronizing home enterprises and keeping their money at home, they ought to practice what they preach by patronizing The News-Bulletin.

It helps build up the town by bringing in more business. People will go miles to obtain bargains that are advertised in this paper. Considerable money comes in thru foreign advertisements and is spent with home people, thereby helping build up the towns in which it circulates.

Judicious advertising in The News-Bulletin pays, as has been demonstrated on too many occasions to enumerate here.

Advertisements in The News-Bulletin go into the homes thruout this section and are read at the fireside instead of being thrown down like a circular and trampled under foot.

Home merchants need to advertise in this paper so as to compete with the mail order houses that are broad casting advertisements thruout the whole country.

Advertisements in The News-Bulletin cost less than in many other weekly papers with no greater circulation.

Merchants should advertise in the News-Bulletin because the editor gives much space cheerfully to the cause of religion, education and civic improvements. This paper has helped champion every moral issue brought before the people of this section. It stands for uprightness and law enforcement in every respect.

Catholics To Stage Play at Mokena

Wednesday night, May 6th at 8 o'clock the De Soto Players of Joliet will present the thrilling play entitled "The Divorce Question" in St. John's Evangelical church auditorium, Mokena. This play has never been published, and therefore the DeSoto Players are giving the public an unusual treat. The play has been obtained by special arrangement from the author himself, Anthony McGuire, of New York. In it the author depicts most vividly the evil that befalls the children when husband and wife divorce. In the play the daughter falls a prey to the underworld of New York. The boy becomes a dope fiend and when defending his sister against the forces of evil that have held her captive, shoots and becomes a murderer. The outstanding star of the play is Walter Weishaar playing to perfection the part of a kind, aged priest.

The following actors make up the cast:

Patrick Skelly Fred C. Dames
Mr. Lawrence Leland Stephen
Father Jerome Walter Weishaar
Mrs. Manners Marguerite Ossman
"Dope" Ray Ebner
Mamie Hildegard Ossman
Mr. Lockwood Arthur Wilhelm
Harold Kickelbush Otto Weber
Catherine Spalding Marie Wagner
Mob Leaders George Hausser and Al Hartong.
Detectives A. Korst and C. Freis Mob.

Music by the DeSoto Orchestra.

A vein of good comedy runs thru the entire play furnished by the well known comedian, Fred Dames, playing the part of an Irish janitor to Father Jerome. Quite comical is the scene wherein Otto Weber and Marie Wagner playing the part of a young couple are trying to get married on the sly.

Pickup Demented Man on Lincolnway

Monday afternoon a strange man acting rather suspiciously was reported on the Lincoln Highway at the Willard C. Owen farm. Deputies George Aschenbrenner and John Frisch drove out and brought the man to Mokena. At the police station it was found that he was an escaped inmate from the Kankakee asylum. When searched the man only had a pocket knife. He was later taken to Joliet and turned over to Sheriff Walker. At the sheriff's office it was said that 3 escaped inmates from Kankakee had been brought in the same day.

New "Quo Vadis" Is Thrill Spectacle

Nothing more realistic has been produced in the motion picture art which has been born and reached maturity in our own generation than First National's gigantic film version of the Sienkiewicz novel, "Quo Vadis," which will be shown in the Marley Community church the later part of May.

In the arena scene, where the Christians are hurled to the lions and that great scene in which Rome is burned, one feels the terror and panic of the fleeing populace as, bearing their household goods, their children and their aged relatives, they flee before the all-devouring flames.

One contrasts, too, this scene when the Roman Empire was crumbling with the scenes of modern times, when the inhabitants of many villages in Belgium and northern France have likewise fled from their homes—but before the invading hordes, not to make a Roman Emperors holiday.

In the scene in the arena where the band of Christian martyrs await Nero's persecutions, one is reminded also of the martyrs of our own day who face privation and death for the sake of an ideal dearer to them than life.

After the games are over, when the Roman populace has imposed its will upon the selfish and degenerate Nero, Vinicius escapes with Lygia, and later marries her.

Emil Jannings, well remembered for his dramatic characterizations in "Passion", "Deception" and others, has the role of Nero, and does perhaps the most brilliant work of his career.

Lillian Hall Davis, a young English stage star, is seen as the beautiful Christian girl, Lygia.

The supporting cast is said to number 20,000 persons, and its hugeness is in conformity with the remainder of the stupendous spectacle.

"It's the drink in you. She isn't better-looking than any average woman in Avonmouth. See here, are you going to bust up the game or are you not?"

"I'll show you!" shouted Lancaster, breaking from Myers' grasp and rushing from the room.

He met the women at the foot of the stairs. His face was flushed, his hair disordered, his manner maniacal. "You sneak, what are you butting into this show for?" he demanded of Mrs. Fraser.

The matron, cowed by his violence, trembled. She tried to pull Joan toward her room; then caught her eye and made the slightest gesture indicative of shooting. Lancaster raised his first threateningly.

The matron did not lift a finger to defend herself. She stood quite calmly, awaiting the expected blow; perhaps it was some atavistic trait inherited through generations of poor ancestors; and yet, servile although it might have been, the look on the woman's face was almost heroic.

The man let his fist fall; he seized the matron by the shoulders and pushed her back into her room. He turned the key in the lock and put it in his pocket.

"That's settled, I reckon," he said with satisfaction.

Joan's hand went into her pocket. Her fingers closed about the revolver handle. But at that moment the secretary, who had come out of his room, went up to Lancaster.

"See here, now," he began to remonstrate, "have a little sense, doctor. If you're bent on busting everything up, you and I part company."

The other turned on him with so menacing a gesture that Myers flung up his hands in despair and went back into his room. Joan stood facing the doctor alone. At that moment her decision was nearly ripened, and she felt conscious of no fear of him at all.

If he attempted violence she knew what she would do. But he did not lay hands on her. He stood leaning against the newel post at the foot of the stairs, watching her face.

Joan was searching his eyes for the least sign of the man she had known, and he broke off, scowling and wincing under her stare. Above his words was the sound of the beating rain, the lashing wind; and from within the matron's room Joan heard Mrs. Fraser crying in prayer:

"O Lord, save her!" she wailed. "Save that girl this night! O Lord, from the devil! Save her! Save her, O Lord!"

"Maybe I got you wrong," continued the doctor. "But if I did, I ask you, who's to blame? Didn't you come to me at my house in Avonmouth and ask for your job back? Weren't you as sweet as sugar when you wanted something out of me? And didn't you agree to come up here to work for me? Well, what's the inference, then? You can have your job back if you want it. But I can do better by you than that. You're too pretty for a nurse's job, and I told you so that day you turned on me in the theater like a wildcat. Now, then! It's up to you! Your move, partner!"

Joan tried to push past him, but he remained at the foot of the stairs, blocking her way.

"Let me pass, please!" she cried. "I'm going to leave the institute at once."

"Without your hat?" he sneered. "Let me pass at once!"

"Well, I reckon I can't stop you," he rejoined. "Just one word more, though. Do you realize your situation? Do you know what people will say when you go to them with crazy stories about me? Nobody will think you came down here to the notorious John Lancaster; after he'd fired you just because you were such a wonderful nurse that he couldn't do without you. What sort of reputation do you expect to have in Avonmouth? You can go, but you won't go there. Not back to Avonmouth, understand that well. I'll hound you out of the town, you little double-crosser!"

For the first time Joan felt her spirit begin to shrink from the ordeal. She was cowed, she was almost as helpless as if he had used physical violence toward her. And through the baneful dream she was aware that Myers had come out of his room and was watching the scene from the end of the hall, wearing a smug, complacent smile. Myers was getting his way and having his revenge in one.

And because the situation was too horrible for belief, Joan could remember only the Lancaster of the yesterday. She ran to the man and caught him by the arms, and looked into his face with pathetic earnestness.

"I'm going to stay, John!" she cried. "My faith is stronger than that. I remember what you have said to me, and I remember my promise to you. Some day you will come to yourself and everything will be clear. I shall call to the John Lancaster I know against the man who claims to be he and is not."

"What do you mean?" shouted the other. "Whom do you take me for?"

"You are not the John Lancaster who won my love," cried Joan, with an impassioned gesture. "Let your better self hear and understand me. You asked me to stay and fight your battle with you, and nothing shall drive me from you till you tell me to go; and not even that; nothing shall make me falter till I have won you again."

The man's eyes blazed. "You're right; you're dead right there, Joan!" he cried, and caught her in his arms. He pressed his lips to hers.

She struggled wildly in his grasp. "Let me go!" she panted. But she could not free herself. She screamed. The matron's voice shrieked through the door. "Shoot him!" she cried. "Shoot him dead! Shoot him!"

Joan wrenched her arm free and struck at the man, but he plinked it again.

"I've got you, Joan!" he cried triumphantly, "and nothing under heaven shall make me let you go."

Held as she was, Joan got her fingers into her pocket. She grasped the little revolver and pulled it forth. She thrust it upward into the man's face. He recoiled with an oath, squinting at the weapon, his face convulsed. And in that moment knowledge came to Joan Wentworth.

"You are not John Lancaster!" she cried.

As she spoke they heard the sound of halting footsteps on the porch. The door swung slowly open. Joan's hand dropped to her side, she slid the revolver mechanically into her pocket; she tried to cry but could not.

Upon the threshold of the door, looking out with a wry, distorted grin on his pale lips, was the man who had held her. And on the threshold, looking in, with eyes drug-clouded, swaying and clutching at the door-pillars to support himself upright, was the John Lancaster of yesterday. And even Joan, with all her love and hate, could not have told the one man from the other.

But with a cry she ran to Lancaster, and caught at him, and felt his arms about her.

Chapter XI

It seemed to Joan, long afterward, like some dreadful picture, the swaying man upon the threshold, to whom she clung, and his double within; and then the rasping voice of Myers broke the long silence.

"Well, well," said the secretary, rubbing his hands together, "here's a pretty kettle of fish. It will all have to come out now."

The Lancaster within the door turned his eyes from Joan to Myers; his passion and rage had frozen into malevolence.

"Don't put the blame on me," said Myers acidly. "I warned you to get rid of her."

Strangely, at that moment Joan felt that she, in spite of her physical weakness, was the dominating figure in the play, and the controlling mind as well.

John Lancaster advanced into the hall. His double, who had drawn back a pace or two, stood watching his efforts to steady himself with a scornful smile. Joan put her hands on her lover's arm; it seemed unbearable that he should display his weakness for them to mock at.

But then, glancing into his face, she saw that, weak as he was, and morphia-ridden, too, it was John Lancaster himself, virile in personality and mind, who had come back. The devil who had been exorcised had returned into his swept and garnished chamber, but he could claim only the physical domain. The body was afire with the accursed drug, but the soul of John Lancaster looked from the cloudy eyes, a man's and not a weakling's.

And Joan knew that it was through no fault of his that he had come back enchained, and that her love had borne him throughout the day and kept his spirit whole.

Lancaster's double turned fiercely upon the secretary.

"Yes, it is a pretty kettle of fish," he retorted, "and it's going to be fried. We'll have this out tonight. Curse you, why didn't you stay here at your post, instead of running to me? Were you afraid of this girl?"

"Who is this man?" Joan asked Lancaster.

"My hab-horber and my evil spirit," he answered.

"Why don't you order him to go? Why don't you order them both to go?"

"Because," replied the other, sneering, "John Lancaster sold me his birthright for a mess of pottage—morphine pottage. That's why. Because it is I whom the world knows as John Lancaster, and not that out-cast, who has sunk so low that he sold his very name for drugs."

"That is a lie," said Lancaster. "You stole my name. You devil, you have robbed me of my manhood these four years past."

"Gentlemen," cried the secretary, "we've got to talk this matter over, and this isn't the place. If the agreement has worked any injustice to Doctor Lancaster, no doubt it can be readjusted. It is clear that we've got to come to a sensible understanding. Let's face the facts like men, and talk it over in the doctor's room. And this girl had better go upstairs," he added.

"Miss Wentworth stays with me," said Lancaster.

The double and the secretary exchanged ironical glances. It was evident that they did not feel themselves to be in the position of trapped conspirators.

"Doctor Lancaster, if you cannot order them to leave, is it necessary that you should be drawn into a discussion now?" Joan asked.

Became a Common Tramp and Wandered About the Country With Hoboes.

"Yes, it is necessary," said Lancaster. "I'll fight this thing with Lawson to a finish tonight."

"Lawson?"

"I believe that I am Lawson," said Lancaster's half-brother, with an ironical bow. "Though I have as good a right to the name as Doctor Lancaster here. Perhaps I should have introduced myself before. But now that we are all introduced I am ready to accept Mr. Myers' sensible suggestion."

They went toward Lancaster's room. Joan perceived now that the doctor's weakness was purely a physical one; he dragged his limbs slightly, the curious result of the morphia poisoning that she had noted before. But he was gaining strength rapidly, and his will had never been stronger.

This was the last battle, of which he had so often spoken to her. This fight must end his captivity.

She went into the room with him, confident in that belief. Myers closed the door behind them and placed his thickest body in front of it. It was astonishing to see how Lancaster braced himself for the ordeal. He drew himself up, standing erect, and faced the others.

"Doctor Lancaster has the floor," said Lawson mockingly. "At least, I understand that the proposal to revise our agreement comes from him."

"Joan, I owe you an explanation," said Lancaster, turning toward the girl. "This morning, after I had operated, I was called to the house which people think is mine—which should be mine," he added with sudden vehemence. "I was told it was an urgent case. I found these men there. They drew me into an argument, and in the heat of it Myers plunged a needleful of morphia into my arm."

"To quiet you, because you were becoming violent and injuring yourself," sneered the secretary. "Yes, I did, and I left you in good hands."

"They left me senseless in the consulting room, but I managed to force my limbs to obey my will. John Lancaster had still a little more will power than they had counted on. And John Lancaster's name was enough to conjure up a special train this afternoon, though they had robbed him of his money."

Joan put her hands on Lancaster's shoulders. "That is all you need to tell me," she said quietly. "I knew you had been trapped by them. I never doubted you."

"Eight years ago," said Lancaster, "I was a man respected in Avonmouth and everywhere throughout the South. Then a domestic trouble overtook me. You know what that was, Joan. It broke me down. I could not cope with life. I lost my grip on reality, gave up my work—"

"Yes, John, now we're getting at the truth," interposed Lawson bitterly. "You, the honored head of the Southern hospital, became a common tramp and wandered about the country with hoboes, and I have been living down your reputation for you. Go on, John. Don't skip the interesting parts."

THE BENEFITS OF TOTAL ABSTINENCE

LESSON TEXT—Dan. 1:1-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank."—Dan. 1:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Four Sensible Boys.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Benefits of Total Abstinence.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Sound Mind and a Sound Body. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Some Benefits of Total Abstinence.

I. Daniel and His Companions in Captivity in Babylon (vv. 1-4).

They were carried away to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar in the first siege of Jerusalem. At the command of the king certain choice young men, including the seed of the king and of the princes, were carried away that they might be made skillful in wisdom, and cunning in knowledge, understanding science so that they might be trained to stand in the king's palace.

II. The Trial of Daniel and His Companions (vv. 5-13).

1. Their Conscience Tested (v. 5). By the appointment of the king, a daily portion of the king's meat and of the wine which he drank was arranged for them. This was contrary to the custom among the godly Jews. Being contrary to the Jewish customs, they could not conscientiously partake of them. It should ever be borne in mind that conscience is the groundwork of human character.

2. Their Change of Name (vv. 6-7). Among the Hebrews most significant names were given to children. Daniel means, "God is my judge." The significance of this name was that all the problems of life were submitted to God for His decision. God was made the arbiter of his life. This was the secret of Daniel's life. No doubt this expresses the purpose of his parents in giving him the name. His name was changed to Belteshazzar meaning "Bel's prince," the one whom the chief god of the Babylonians favors. Hananiah means, "gift of" or "beloved of Jehovah," and his name was changed to Shadrach which signifies, "illumined by the sun god, Rak." Mithael means, "who is as God" and his name was changed to Meshach meaning "who is like the goddess Shesach, the gentle one." Azariah means, "Jehovah is our help," and was changed to Abednego which means, "the servant of Nego." Back of the change of names was the attempt of Satan to wipe out the name of the true God, and have these young men lose their separation and thus become assimilated among the heathen.

3. Their Religious Life (v. 8). This involved their refusal to eat meat and to drink wine which was contrary to their teaching. In the case of Daniel, at least, it also involved praying three times a day.

4. Their Courtesy (vv. 8-13). Daniel seems to have been the spokesman for the company. Although Daniel's heart was fixed, he did not forget to be a gentleman. He requested to be excused from this meat and drink in order that he be not defiled. Christians should learn from this to be courteous even in times of great trials. God had brought Daniel into favor and tender love with those who were over him.

III. The Success of Daniel and His Companions (vv. 14-21).

1. Their Physical Health (vv. 14-16). A test was made for ten days, and it was shown that they were fairer in countenance and fatter in flesh than those who indulged in the king's meat. Godly and temperate living pays. It is obligatory upon God's children today to conscientiously abstain from that which is contrary to His law. It means total abstinence from intoxicating liquors, and everything which would injure the health.

2. Mental Growth (vv. 17-20). Daniel and his companions were found to be ten times superior to their comrades in matters of wisdom and understanding. It is always true that those who abstain from indulging in the use of strong drink have clearer minds and are mentally better equipped for their work than those who indulge.

3. The Social and Political Preference (v. 19). They stood before the king.

4. Their Temporal Influence (v. 21). They were all advanced to positions of influence and Daniel became president of the college of wise men, and the prime minister of the nation.

5. Spiritual Insight (v. 17). Because of Daniel's loyalty to God, visions embracing the entire history of the world came to him and Nebuchadnezzar's dream was revealed.

Do Right

Do right, and God's recompense to you will be the power of doing more right. Give, and God's reward to you will be the spirit of living more. Withhold from God and the accounting will follow.

Light Much Cheaper Now

Since the development of electric energy, light has steadily become cheaper with the result that light for household purposes today is only about one-sixteenth as expensive as it was 40 years ago. This is one of the very few commodities the cost of which has come down in recent years. In 1887 about 1,115 candlepower could be bought for $1, but by 1923 $1 would buy 16,200 candlepower.

Many famous French actors and singers have sprung from working families. Verdier, one of the best singers in France, was a village blacksmith, while Franz, the leading tenor of the Paris opera, was employed by a railroad company as a brakeman until he was forty years old. Antoine, famous actor and manager, started life as a clerk for an electric light company, while the comedian Chevalier had a fruit stand near the Comedie Francaise. Note, once famous baritone, was a railway porter. Xavier Privat, a favorite of the Montmartre cabarets, used to be a beggar. He sang in the streets for a few cents or a crust of bread.

Plan Revolving Garage
A possible solution of the shortage of parking and garage accommodations is offered in a revolving garage to be erected soon in the West end of London, England, says Popular Science Monthly. The floors of the garage will be arranged as concentric rings, each of which will be divided into a number of one-car compartments. The floor will be revolved so that any compartment can be brought into line with the main entrance.

Crisis for Men
A traveling salesman standing in the lobby of a downtown hotel was discussing men's clothes. "The trouble with suits," he declared, "is that when you buy one made from a material that will wear a long time you have a suit that is not very attractive. On the other hand, the suit that looks well on you and makes a good impression on others is of the sort of material that not only loses its shape quickly but wears out quickly. I hope some manufacturer some day looms a cloth that will have the toughness of the one mingled with the beauty of the other. Then the situation will be cleared."—Detroit News.

HINDENBURG WINS GERMAN ELECTION

Field Marshal Is Declared
Elected by Majority of 900,000.

Berlin.—Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, candidate of the Nationalist-Monarchist bloc, was officially declared elected President of Germany over former Chancellor Wilhelm Marx by a plurality of about 900,000 votes. The vote was as follows:

Von Hindenburg 14,600,000
Marx 13,700,000
Ernst Thälmann, Communist... 1,900,000

Had the Communists chosen to support the Republican candidate instead of splitting the Republican vote, Hindenburg's defeat would have been accomplished without much difficulty, thus the Weimar bloc leaders blamed the Communists for their defeat.

Hindenburg carried the greater part of Bavaria, and he also did much better in the southern part of Germany than was expected. This, with the support given him in East Prussia, as well as the northern part of the country, gave him the victory.

Despite the rain prevailing over the greater part of the country, a heavy vote was cast, equalling that of the December reichstag election.

The returns show that some 3,000,000 voters who failed to cast their ballots in the first Presidential contest on March 29, when the total was 28,000,000, on Sunday voted for Hindenburg, being unable to withstand the magic lure of the marshal's name.

Hindenburg will assume the Presidency immediately upon the publication of the official returns which will be before the end of this week. He will be sworn into office by the Socialist reichstag president, Loebe.

Among the votes the marshal received were those of the entire Hohenzollern family. The former crown prince and his wife voted at Oels, while the rest of the former Kaiser's sons cast their votes at Potsdam, where they live.

Three are dead, one dying, and more than 100 persons wounded in election riots which featured the polling. Two were killed and two seriously wounded in Karlsruhe, and one was killed and one is dying in Berlin.

There is hardly any city in Germany which was not the scene of election violence. Except in Berlin and Karlsruhe the police were able to keep the situation under control.

The center of the fighting in Berlin was again in the neighborhood of Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial church where thirty were injured.

Washington Not Alarmed by Hindenburg Election

Washington.—Little alarm appeared to have been created in Washington by the election of Von Hindenburg as President of the German republic.

Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, said:

"I do not think the Hindenburg election need to be regarded as necessarily disturbing. I have no doubt there will be a recrudescence of the nationalistic feeling and spirit, but if that is directed along right lines it will be helpful. I feel that it will be directed along right lines.

"There will be much talk about Germany arming and getting ready for another war. I do not believe that there will be anything of the kind. I expect to see a strong, proud effort on the part of Germany to retain her national integrity, both territorially and economically, and for one I hope she may. It is to the interest of Europe and all the world that she do so.

"In short, I think the outside world had better go forward on the theory that the German people had the right to elect the man they wanted and that until the facts appear otherwise they will accommodate their energies and their efforts to right principles and policy."

Girl Slain, Body Burned Near Chesterton, Ind.

Chesterton, Ind.—The body of a girl of sixteen, believed to be from Gary, was found opposite a lonely patch of woods on the Furnessville highway, three miles northeast of Chesterton. She had been shot twice through the head. Then her body had been saturated with gasoline and set ablaze.

Two farmers investigating what they believed a charred log at the roadside made the gruesome find. Glasses, their lenses intact, a string of charred beads and the remains of a plush coat may lead to identification. Automobile tracks and a partially burned card may lead to the killer.

On the card was printed: "North West Region, Pennsylvania Railway, Employees' Association." Written in ink was "No. 1032."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

POPULAR SUPERSTITIONS

EVERYBODY who has read "Tom Sawyer" (and who hasn't) remembers Huck Finn's cure for warts. Tom had warts on his hands, as most growing boys do. He asked Huck if he knew how to cure them and Huck, like all self-made doctors, said "sure."

This was Huck's method: "You find a stump with a holler in it full of spunk water," he said. "Then you go out to the stump at midnight in the dark of the moon and you back up to the stump and poke your hand into the spunk water and you say, three times, 'Barley corn, barley corn, Injun meal shorts, spunk water, spunk water, swaller these warts,' and then you go straight home without looking over your shoulder, 'cause if you turn round, the charm's busted."

Belief in Huck's charm still persists in a good many minds. It has always been claimed that education is the remedy for superstition. So Doctor Rawlings, Illinois state director of health, thought he'd find out how much belief in superstitions prevailed among high-school students.

Ten old superstitions were put up to 1,500 high-school pupils, with surprising results.

Nineteen per cent of the pupils believed that a madstone would prevent hydrophobia; twenty-six per cent believed that warts could be removed by charms, all the way from Huck Finn's elaborate plan, to the simple one of stealing your neighbor's dish rag and burying it under the fence; twenty-three per cent believed that a long horse hair, put in a rain barrel or watering trough, will turn into a snake. Many believed in hoop snakes, others were sure a rabbit's foot brought good luck, that a strip of red flannel tied around the neck prevented croup and that a potato or horse chestnut carried in the pocket would "draw the poison" and cure rheumatism.

These are all remnants of the childhood of the race, when everyone believed in charms and curses, in fairies and demons. There's a grain of superstition in all of us. Most of us overcome it, as we grow older and wiser. Those who do not, go to fortune tellers and palmists, have their heads felt by "professors of phrenology" and buy "patent medicines" for their ailments, without knowing what all them or what they are taking.

Truly, knowledge is power, but only if used with common sense.

DIABETIC COMA

BEFORE the discovery of insulin, there were two conditions that were recognized as the usual causes for coma in diabetes. These were infections and mistakes in diet. To this, says Doctor Foster of New York, must now be added a third—failure to use the necessary amount of insulin.

Diabetic coma or unconsciousness is the most dreaded event in this disease, the fear that hangs always over the heads of both the diabetic patient and his doctor. Many persons have had a small percentage of sugar in their urine for a long time and have never known it. Many persons, who have known that they had diabetes, have lived for years in comparative comfort and happiness. But always over every diabetic hangs this dreaded sword of Damocles, suspended by a hair.

The diabetic patient has a hard life. He must rigidly follow a strict diet. He must not only avoid overeating, which most diabetics have been guilty of, but he must also especially avoid sugar and starches, probably the two things he likes and craves the most. Any sudden indulgence, a special dinner, a birthday party may be the last straw.

Or the harm may be done by an infection. A slight cold, that in the healthy person would be of no consequence, may bring disaster to the diabetic.

Whatever the cause, the body is strained beyond the point of endurance, the pancreas refuses to work, the sugar accumulates in the blood and cannot be excreted, a condition known as acidosis or an acid condition of the blood develops, often without warning. The patient feels dizzy, tired and sleepy, has a headache, breathes slowly and deeply, soon drops asleep, becomes unconscious and may never waken.

Any of the common infections, such as measles, tonsillitis, boils or bronchitis, may produce this result. It is impossible for the diabetic patient to dodge all infections and never to make a mistake in his diet. So every person with diabetes should be kept under careful observation. He and his family should be told the danger and should know what to do, if he suddenly becomes unconscious.

The diabetic who finds that he has a headache, feels drowsy and has "air hunger" should go to bed, keep warm, avoid chilling, drink plenty of pure water and send for his doctor, who will probably give him insulin at once and more water.

If you have diabetes, your life depends on your carefulness. If you haven't diabetes, thank God and don't overeat.

Love May Yet Be Put on Scientific Basis

The matrimonial reports of our day are undertaking to put love on a sound, scientific basis. Let us skip a few hundred years and behold the synthetic romance of youth and a maid of some generations to come. The young man, armed with a stethoscope, a tape measure and the means of making a blood test, goes to call upon the lady whose charms have attracted him, ventures the Toledo Blade.

He taps a vein, listens to the thump of her heart and to the wind whistling through her bronchial tubes, and ends his labors with a careful examination of the soles of her feet.

Satisfied with the showing, he makes a request for a kiss and obtains one, duly hygienized through a strainer whipped from a vanity bag. That is, he does unless the young woman wallops him instead.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and inclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

John Oestreich of Mokena Summoned By Death Fri. A. M.

FUNERAL SUNDAY AT 2 P. M.

The Angel of Death has been a frequent visitor in Mokena of late and early Friday morning just before dawn he came again and summoned John Oestreich, the aged father of Mrs. Hugh Deadmore and Mrs. William Semmler. Mr. Oestreich was taken ill with pneumonia about 11 days ago and was in a critical state almost from the start. He appeared to improve the forepart of the week, but toward the closing hours of his life he suddenly took a turn for the worse and about 2:45 o'clock Friday morning he passed out to the Great Beyond, the transition from life to death being calm and peaceful.

Mr. Oestreich was born in Oestheim, Germany on December 12, 1841 and attained the age of 83 years. He leaves to mourn his departure his widow, one son Theodore of Joliet, three daughters, Mrs. W. A. Campbell of St. Lake City, Utah, Mrs. Hugh Deadmore and Mrs. William Semmler, both of Mokena and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Mokena Methodist church with Rev. A. R. MMangus officiating. Burial will be in the Oakwood cemetery, Joliet.

MOKENA

Owing to the smallpox epidemic at Joliet the Mokena School Board has deemed it for the best interests of the public health that all children and older people who have not been vaccinated within the past five years, submit to vaccination now. The Board requests that all pupils attending the Mokena public school who have not been vaccinated be vaccinated by May 6th as a precautionary measure.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our beloved son and brother, Conrad E. Schenkel. Also for the floral offerings and the comforting words of Rev. Wm. Kreis, Conrad Schenkel And Family.

WORTH

One of the largest crowds ever seen in the Worth church was present a week ago last Friday night and gathered in a community supper and to promote a community spirit. Rev. Mr. Sanders started the ball a rolling by saying all who were present came for a good time and that the best way he knew of to enjoy such was to have an old time community sing. All joined heartily in singing that old familiar song "Auld Lang Syne", following which supper was served after which Rev. Mr. Collins of the Orland M. E. church gave an address which was very well received. Mr. Perry Bishop gave a number of funny talks which added spice to the program. The Worth orchestra played a number of selections. All who had the good pleasure to be present were unanimous in saying they had one wonderful time. It is hoped more of these affairs will be held this year as they are the greatest thing in the world to promote the community spirit.

This was one of Rev. Mr. Sanders ideas of bringing in a new spirit to the people of Worth. The splendid decorations were the handiwork of the Ever-Gay Sewing Club who have spent a long time in decorating and cleaning up the church for the occasion.

Friday evening, May 8th the Garrett Preachers Quartet will be at the Worth church and sing. This quartet is very popular with the radio fans having sung from station WLS Chicago. Let us all come and hear them sing. Tickets may be bought at the door.

The Worth church has just received over 600 books from the Chicago Public Library. The church will be opened up later so anyone may come and draw books from this library.

Stop Night Coughing This Simple Way

People who have persistent, annoying coughing spells at night, and who through loss of valuable sleep are weakening their systems and laying themselves open to dangerous infections, can stop their distressing trouble promptly by a very simple treatment. Hundreds who have hardly been able to rest at all for coughing, have gotten their full night's sleep the very first time they tried it.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The result is that you usually sleep as soundly as a babe the very first night, and the entire cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, hoarseness and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup—no harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. It is on sale at all good druggists. Ask for Another Theory of the Flood. A new theory of the flood has been discovered in South Africa. Hydrographers investigating the waterways of Uganda have found indications that Lake Victoria and other central African lakes were at one time vast inland seas, which a little excess of rainfall would cause to overflow into the lands to the north. The discovery of primitive stone implements along the old water levels prove these to have been within the "human" period.

Most Difficult Things in Life.

A Danish paper recently asked the readers to state what is the hardest thing in the world to do. It received many more replies than it had anticipated, some of which are as follows: To be a toe dancer if you weigh 200 pounds, to get back borrowed books, to trim one's nails while wearing boxing gloves. Some of the readers took the question seriously and answered it seriously. One replied that to live without telling a lie was the most difficult of all.

First Methods of Cooking. Roasting in earth ovens and boiling by placing hot stones in earthenware vessels were prehistoric means of cooking food.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On Signing Papers for Strangers

"Did you hear about the terrible thing that happened to Mrs. Thompson, Aunt Emmy?" asked Maud. "It seems that a man came to see her to ask her to invest in some securities his firm was selling, and she said she did not have any ready money. He asked her if she had some Liberty Bonds, and she showed him her one Liberty Bond, a thousand dollar one. He told her that there were a number of counterfeit bonds about and upon examining her bond said there were some marks that indicated it might be spurious. Poor Mrs. Thompson nearly fainted and begged the stranger to tell her what to do about it."

"He told her not to be unduly alarmed, that there was a chance that he was mistaken. His firm was indignant, he said, about the counterfeit bonds that had been foisted on the public and intended to do everything in its power to run down the culprits. They employed a man who was an authority on counterfeits and he could tell in a minute if her bond was good or not. So Mrs. Thompson let him have the bond to take to his office for examination."

"And, of course, he didn't bring it back," commented Aunt Emmy.

"Worse than that!" Maud went on. "He said that, being a widow, she should be very careful in her business dealings, so he made her sign what he called a receipt, although she didn't read it. About a week after his visit she received a number of shares of stock that she says she never heard of and certainly never bought. So she wrote to the investment house the stock came from and said she thought a mistake had been made. Imagine her surprise when she was informed that she had signed an order for those shares of stock in exchange for a $1,000 Liberty Bond!"

"First she was coming right over to see you and then decided not to, because she felt ashamed when she remembered that you had warned her about being taken in, now that Mr. Thompson is dead and she has to handle her own business affairs. My brother Tom says he thinks nothing can be done about it, as the receipt bearing her signature is really an order for the stock."

"I am sorry to hear this, Maud," said Aunt Emmy. "What a pity she did not take her bond to the bank to have it examined if that slick salesman aroused suspicions in her mind as to its genuineness. She would have been dealing with people of integrity, whom she could trust absolutely. And yet she allowed herself to be duped by a perfect stranger!"

"Yet there must be a lot of that sort of thing when you consider that over $600,000,000 a year is being taken away from the honest people in the United States by stock swindlers. If the people would only learn to trust the guidance of their financial affairs to their banks and never sign anything they have not read and do not understand, there would be less unhappiness about money matters."—Anne B. Aymes.

NEW ERA FOR AGRICULTURE

New York.—A new era lies ahead for agriculture because it now commands the best economic thought of the business world directed on its prime requirements of better distribution and marketing. President W. C. Gordon of the State Bank Division, American Bankers Association, declares in a recent communication to the thirteen thousand members of the division. He seeks to enlist their interest in the work of improving the marketing of farm products.

"The farmer today finds himself far removed from his consumer-customer by a long line of intermediate agencies, which often leave him in a position of disadvantage as an individual producer," Mr. Gordon says. "It is, therefore, not strange that he should seek to apply to agriculture those principles of production and distribution found successful in industry. His rightful ambition is to make, where feasible, a general application of successful business experience to the marketing of agricultural products. Commanding the best economic thought of the business world, agriculture undoubtedly stands on the threshold of a new era. In lieu of fantastic panaceas, agricultural welfare—which, after all, is the Nation's welfare—has need of a sane, long range program that is at once practical, constructive and economically sound."

He goes on to call attention to the "long view program suggested for agricultural distribution" at Washington by the Agricultural Conference, urging study of it.

HOW EXCESSIVE TAXES BLIGHT A NATION'S LIFE

Productive Effort Stops if Government Takes Undue Share of Profits, Says Treasury Official.

WEALTH IN RUSSIA FLED BEFORE THE TAXGATHERER

Men in America Prefer Golf to Giving Fruits of Three Days Work a Week to Income Taxes

The blighting effects of excessive taxation, leading to a nation's economic destruction, are described in the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal by Garrard B. Winston, Under-secretary of the Treasury. Citing possible effects on the Ford Motor Car Company, he declares that "the value is so large and its ownership so centered it is conceivable that collection of inheritance taxes may check, if not destroy, that unit of policy which has created and expanded that industry and thus prevent its future prosperity. Of what avail, then, is it to any government if it collects one hundred million dollars once in estate taxes and destroys a source of income upon which it can rely for revenue year after year?"

"Success of the Ford Company does not mean simply that Mr. Ford and his son have grown wealthy. It means employment of tens of thousands of men and women; that mines, forests, railroads and vessels are brought into use; that the public has received an efficient and inexpensive means of transportation; that the farm is in touch with the city, and the worker with his office." Mr. Winston says in part:

Wealth Flees Oppression

"Upon first impression it might appear that a nation could take all of the earnings of its citizens or all of their property. The Soviet government proposed to appropriate all instrumentalities of trade and commerce. Yet, when the state reached out to grasp this wealth, it disappeared and left nothing but a few tangible objects, such as gold and jewels, which were easily transported to other countries. Wealth in Russia ceased to exist."

"If income tax rates are placed so high that capital in productive business no longer gives a net return commensurate with the risk, capital will go out of productive business, lie idle, go abroad, go into tax-exempt securities, or find other ways of avoiding the tax. If income tax rates are so excessive that a man of ability finds he must work more than three days a week for the government, he will become discouraged and decide that the result is not worth the effort. Less income will be produced and less will be realized from the tax."

"Recently a letter came to the Treasury from a small farmer. He owned a few acres which in 1913 were assessed at $900 and on which a tax of $12 was levied. In 1924 the assessed value increased to $3,200 and the tax to $123, but the farm failed to produce any more. Taxes exceeded the rental value of the land and more than the net earnings of the property were taken by the state. The farm was abandoned and now produces no tax."

"Often there come to notice cases where a particular improvement is not made, or a particular business is not started, because after deducting taxes the risk exceeds the value of the expected return. Men have dropped business, spent their winters in Florida and their summers abroad, because what they are permitted to retain under present tax rates is not worth the labor they must give to acquire it. They prefer golf to the further development of the country."

Unscientific Taxes Destroy a Nation

"Unscientific methods of taxation may actually destroy the very earnings or property which it should be the principal interest of a government to foster. When it reaches the limits of what is known as its taxable capacity, a nation has begun to die. If taxes are raised too high, a country will slowly but surely destroy itself. It will use for daily consumption the seed corn on which its future life depends, and the spirit of initiative and adventure in its people will finally disappear. One or more of three things happen: The quantity of consumption is cut down, which means a lowering of the standard of living; or capital accumulations for extensions, improvements and new undertakings must diminish, resulting in a slowing up of progress and lessening eventually of taxable revenue; or, thirdly, a slackening of effort on the part of the citizen will take place when too large a part of his earnings are taken in taxes."

"The effort in taxation should be to find the tax which will continue to raise money over a period of years. Invariably, with an excessive tax, its yield has fallen off year by year, while each rate reduction is reflected in an increase of taxable income. If the Treasury is to be assured a continuance of revenue, our citizens must prosper. If they are to prosper the appropriation by the state of their earnings and property must be based upon economically sound principles."

There is a thing called yesterday, but that is only the dust-bin at the door, into which we cast our refuse, our failures, our worn-out souls. There is a thing called tomorrow, bursting with far better things than those which we have discarded. AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience

Evanston, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me. In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. VERBENA CARPENTER, 127 2nd Avenue, Evanston, Wyoming.

We frequently complain that our lives are narrow and unsatisfactory. Perhaps they are, but who makes them so? We are "the architects of our own fortunes" and "the builders of the houses in which we live." If our lives are contracted and self-centered we can replan and rebuild if we will.—Grit.

How to build up your Weight
TO BE under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

MRS. URQUHART GETS REWARD

Mrs. Urquhart of Omaha wants every housewife to share her good fortune in possessing a handsome reward. Here is what she says: "This is the way I did it. I answered an ad by writing for a free 10c bottle of Liquid Veneer and I found it so wonderful for dusting and polishing that I told fifteen of my friends about it and the makers sent me entirely free and postpaid, a great big, beautiful $2.00 Liquid Veneer Polishing Mop." Then Mrs. Urquhart goes on to say: "I am very proud and pleased with the reward given for what I have done, so will take great pleasure in showing it to friends."

Twenty thousand of these $2.00 Mops are going to be given away to housewives. Write for a free 10c bottle and ask for descriptive circular 15 telling how easily you, too, may have one of these mops. Address Liquid Veneer Company, Dept. L, Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.
